for the preparation of candidates of the second (Master's) level of higher education in the field of study 29 "International Relations", specialty 292 "International Economic Relations", developed by the Department of International Economic Relations and Business, National Aviation University

The reviewed Educational and Professional Program "International Business" for the second (Master's) level of higher education in specialty 292 "International Economic Relations" at the National Aviation University provides an opportunity to offer graduates systematic knowledge and skills, develop their communication abilities, sense of responsibility, and autonomy.

The curriculum for the practical implementation of the Educational and Professional Program fully aligns with its objectives. The sequence of disciplines, the list and scope of compulsory and elective courses correspond to the structural-logical sphere of preparing candidates for higher education (Master's level) in specialty 292 "International Economic Relations" and is designed to ensure the conformity of program learning outcomes with the demands of stakeholders.

The EPP "International Business" was developed by the working group of the Department of International Economic Relations and Business at the National Aviation University. It meets all modern requirements for professionals in this field. A notable advantage of this Master's program is that the teaching of disciplines and the provision of other educational components are based on the strong scientific foundation of the National Aviation University, which is consistently updated and comprises scientific publications, research reports, grant projects, and programs of scientific internships.

The EPP "International Business" of the second (Master's) level, specialty 292 "International Economic Relations," also involves engaging prominent practicing experts from State administration and foreign relations bodies, diplomats, and managers in the training of candidates. Therefore, a clear advantage of the reviewed program lies in its alignment with the requirements of employers who have participated in shaping the cycles of professionally oriented disciplines.

It is worth noting that an aviation and space component is present in all work programs included in the discipline cycles, highlighting the context of developing international economic relations as a strategic direction for national economic development. Its presence makes the Master's educational program unique for Ukraine.

In conclusion, the reviewed EPP "International Business" meets the requirements of the educational process, it is adequately equipped, and capable of guaranteeing the acquisition of declared competencies and results. Accordingly, the presented Educational and Professional Program "International Business" for the preparation of candidates of the second (Master's) level of higher education in specialty 292 "International Economic Relations" can be confidently recommended for practical use.
