REVIEW

on the educational and professional program "Foreign Policy and Diplomacy" for the training of applicants for higher education of the second (master's) level of specialty 291 "International Relations, Public Communications and Regional Studies" of the field of knowledge 29 "International Relations", developed by the Department of International Relations, Information and Regional Studies of the National Aviation University

The educational and professional program "Foreign Policy and Diplomacy" for the training of applicants for higher education of the second (master's) level of specialty 291 "International Relations, Public Communications and Regional Studies" of the field of knowledge 29 "International Relations" is an excellent example of a deep and comprehensive approach to the training of specialists in the field of international relations, foreign policy and diplomacy. This educational and professional program is a highly structured and carefully thought-out teaching methodology. It covers a wide range of topics, from theoretical aspects of international relations to practical exercises and case studies, allowing students to gain both a theoretical knowledge base and the necessary practical experiences in the field of foreign policy and diplomacy.

One of the key advantages of this program is its emphasis on the use of modern approaches to learning. Students have the opportunity to take part in discussions, negotiations, case studies and other active forms of learning, which contribute to better understanding and perceiving of the material.

A vital aspect of the program is the relevance of its content and up-to-date teaching methods. It reflects the latest trends in the development of international relations, taking into account the current challenges and problems faced by international communities.

This program is implemented by highly qualified teachers and scholars who are experts in foreign policy and diplomacy. Their knowledge and experience helps students to gain a deep understanding of complex issues of international relations and prepare for professional activities in this field.

Therefore, future Masters in foreign policy and diplomacy can thus prepare to become key figures in modern international community, capable of analyzing, developing and implementing legal solutions that affect global politics and society as a whole.
